NHS (press update) 13.05.2024
After the first post on our blog, we contacted the NHS administration for a month by phone and email urging them to negotiate. In response, we received laughter and statements that they didn't care if we published. Moreover, we contacted the cyber police and received rudeness from these law enforcement officers. And now they're trying to present it like this: Julie White, chief executive of NHS Dumfries and Galloway, said: “This is an utterly abhorrent criminal act by cyber criminals who had threatened to release more data”.

Our school offers 150 places in Years 7 to 11 and has a highly successful Sixth Form. In September 2011 we re-named the school in honour of our Founder Christopher Urswick. We are proud of our history and continue to provide education consistent with Christian teaching. Our Mission Statement 'Believe and Achieve' promotes our high aspirations for all our learners of whatever background or faith. We are a Christian school not just a school for Christians.

against me. I would like to state categorically that I have not plagiarised any work in my submission, and I am willing to cooperate fully with any investigation to prove my innocence.

I received an E on the topic in question, and it is disheartening to be accused of plagiarism after putting in so much hard work and effort. I believe that these allegations have been brought against me due to problems with my behavior, which has resulted in the constant demonisation of my character by certain individuals in the school, specifically my head of year Youlande Biosah.

Furthermore, I have faced academic negligence throughout my time at this school, with the administration failing to provide me with the necessary resources and support until the very last minute. As a result, I have had to work under extremely challenging circumstances, which has affected my academic performance.

I would like to bring to your attention that my family have already contacted Ofsted regarding this academic negligence of which they have responded I have filed a complaint with Zeinab Kane. If you require copies of this complaint, please do not hesitate to contact her.

Once again, I would like to state that I have not plagiarised any work in my submission and it was with my prompt to send off my work that this is happening after I was accused by my teacher. I have classmates that have witnessed my frustrations and plead to send it off despite my teacher at the

Guidelines for Responding to Data Exfiltration and Extortion Demands Understanding the Situation

Data Exfiltration and Investigation:

We have conducted a thorough investigation of your network and downloaded all confidential, private, proprietary, legal, financial, and compromising information belonging to you, your customers, and employees, including databases and all valuable documents. This action highlights the insecurity of your infrastructure.

Demand for Payment:

We are demanding payment in exchange for the secure deletion of the exfiltrated data and to prevent its public exposure.

Steps to Restore Normal Operations and Protect Your Data

Initiating Negotiations:

Contact us using the contact details left in the notes inside your network.
In your initial message, include the name of your domain and the names of three random servers from your network to verify your identity as a company representative.

Proof of Exfiltrated Data:

We will provide you with a list of the exfiltrated files.
You can select 5 files from the list that do not contain critical information, and we will send them to you as proof.
